DETAILED ACTION

Drawings

1. The drawings were received on 20 June 2005. These drawings are acceptable.

Response to Amendment

2. The indicated allowability of original claims 6, 14 (and as a result, new claim 1) is withdrawn in view of the newly discovered reference to Koch (US Patent No. 6,543,508 B2).

Rejections based on the newly cited reference follow.

3. Since this action is Non-Final, no interview was given as requested since the applicant has not had the opportunity to consider the new rejection. Applicant is free to call to request an interview if they wish to expedite the examination of this application.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 112

4. The following is a quotation of the second paragraph of 35 U.S.C. 112:

The specification shall conclude with one or more claims particularly pointing out and distinctly claiming the subject matter which the applicant regards as his invention.

5. Claim 21 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, second paragraph, as being indefinite for failing to particularly point out and distinctly claim the subject matter which applicant regards as the invention.

6. Claim 21 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, second paragraph, as being incomplete for omitting essential structural cooperative relationships of elements, such omission amounting to a gap between the necessary structural connections. See MPEP § 2172.01. The omitted structural cooperative relationships are: Applicant claims the "apparatus of Claim 1 comprising a mouse pad," however, the specification states "apparatus 10 can be utilized as a mouse pad and/or a working or writing surface." The claim fails to achieve the structure as set forth in the specification. Appropriate correction is required.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

7. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(e) the invention was described in (1) an application for patent, published under section 122(b), by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent or (2) a patent granted on an application for patent by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent, except that an international application filed under the treaty defined in section 351(a) shall have the effects for purposes of this subsection of an application filed in the United States only if the international application designated the United States and was published under Article 21(2) of such treaty in the English language.

8. Claims 1-3, 6, 15-20 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(e) as being anticipated by Koch.

Regarding claim 1, Koch discloses an apparatus for transferring a label portion from a label assembly onto an object. Koch includes a base (10) with a stop wall (12) and an application area (13) which is bound by the stop wall (12). Koch also includes a first stripping member (15) which includes fingers as seen in Figure 1. The fingers extend from the stop wall (12) toward the application and are suspended there over to hold the disk separate from label prior to the labels application to the disk. (Col. 6, lines 19-37.) Koch also includes a second stripping member which acts as a hub (18). The member (18a) is at the end of the U-shaped slots (17) and are suspended over at least a portion of the application area (13). The label is positioned on the base between the first stripping member and the second stripping member. (See Figure 1.)

Regarding claim 2, the stripping members (15) around the periphery of the wall act as indexing elements.

Art Unit: 1734

Regarding claim 3, the side cavities (16a) shown in Figure 1 are opposing guides.

Regarding claim 6, the stripping member (18a) has separate opposing members as defined by the claim. (See Figure 1.)

Regarding claim 15, the device in Koch is made from plastic.

Regarding claims 16 and 17, the stop wall is integrated with the base and extends along at least a portion of the periphery of the base.

Regarding claim 18, the stripping members (15) are "integrated" with the wall (12) because there are made from the plastic and connected thereto.

Regarding claim 19, the wall is effectively "sloped."

Regarding claim 20, there is a gap between the stripping member (15) and the first surface of the application area, as well as between the second stripping member and the first surface. (See Figures 1 and 2.)

Allowable Subject Matter

9. Claims 24-39 are allowed.
10. Claims 4, 5, 7-13, 22, and 23 are objected to as being dependent upon a rejected base claim, but would be allowable if rewritten in independent form including all of the limitations of the base claim and any intervening claims.

Response to Arguments

11. Applicant's arguments with respect to claims 1-3 and 15-21 have been considered but are moot in view of the new grounds of rejection.
12. Applicant's arguments, see page 17 of the Response, filed 20 June 2005, with respect to Claim 24 have been fully considered and are persuasive. The rejection of Claims 24-27 has been withdrawn.

Art Unit: 1734

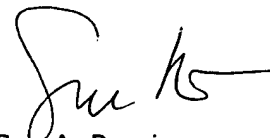

Conclusion

13. The prior art made of record and not relied upon is considered pertinent to applicant's disclosure. Clark et al. (US Patent No. 6,585,021 B2) is a reference of interest but does not disclose the features as claimed.
